

33rd TPM FACILITATORS COURSE

13-17 April 2020: Pune

TPM is today well known amongst Indian Industry as a powerful tool to become competitive in operations and management. TPM (Total Productive Maintenance), considered to be one of the jewels of Manufacturing by the Japanese Industry, made its humble beginning in the Indian Industry way back early 1990s in the shop floor of Vikram Cements, TANFAC & followed by Sundram Fasteners - the Auto component manufacturer. Since then, TPM has gained strong foothold and taken deep in-roots into the Manufacturing sector, spanning across Petrochemicals, FMCG, Steel, Pharma etc., to quote a few divergent industries. Many Industries are enthusiastically introducing this approach and achieving exciting results. TPM is a highly structured approach with very clear milestones and indicators that can be implemented with skilled professionals.

We, at CII TPM Club India, have been serving the Indian Manufacturing Sector, for over two decades, through training, consulting and actual hand holding in implementation of TPM, as advocated and practiced by JIPM (Japan Institute of Plant Maintenance), the original developers of TPM methodologies, world over. The TPM Facilitators Course has been developed in the CII TPM Club India with a goal of developing such professionals in the companies, practicing and initiating TPM.

To understand, assimilate and implement TPM inside any organization, calls for a firm comprehension of the principles and methods of the various pillar activities, by the secretariat, since it is they who have to ensure a structured way of TPM implementation. Depending upon the size of the organization, a minimum of three persons would be required to possess this knowledge, to deploy amongst the operating teams, middle and senior management alike.

To cater to this growing demand, CII TPM Club India, has developed the FACILITATORS COURSE, focused towards middle level, senior level management members/ Site Heads/ TPM Coordinators.

The program would equip each participant to shoulder TPM responsibility, to drive its deployment across the organization, and also to successfully steer the organization to challenge the JIPM Award. The methods, tools, techniques and concepts dealt in this program is strictly in conformity with the JIPMS methodology (consulting division of JIPM). To mention with all humility, it would be worthwhile to note that CII TPM Club India, has so far conducted successfully 32 Facilitator Courses, more as an annual event, inclusive of those conducted overseas in Egypt, Andaman, South Africa and Saudi Arabia also, for the benefit of TPM practicing organizations. Several organizations which are yet to start TPM practices have also been the beneficiaries of the Facilitators Course.

Participants would be exposed to TPM through classroom training and case study presentations. The programme concludes with an examination that would qualify the participants as TPM in-house Facilitators.
